TWO MEN CLAIM THEY KILLED PARMA SCHOOL TEACHERS; DID EITHER ONE? PUZZLES POLICE

CLEVELAND O., April 2.—Residents of Parma township tonight will have an opportunity to identify a suspect, who, according to the police, has confessed several times that he is the slayer of Mabel Foote and Louise Wolf, Parma school teachers, who were murdered in February.

The man, said by police to be a mental defective, will be taken before the citizens in the school house, where the two women taught, on the theory that some one in the audience may have seen him on the day or before the murder. He sticks to his claim that he killed the school teachers. Chief of Police Smith declared, "This is a probable case. He has the mind of a four-year-old child, a mind that cannot add two and two, and that cannot spell or read."

Officials are puzzled at the apparent knowledge not only of the principal facts, but of unpublished facts in connection with the case displayed by a suspect questioned in a Kentucky insane asylum by Sheriff C. B. Stannard and City Detective Shibley.

Authorities are at a loss to account for the similarity of the stories told by the hospital inmate and the suspect being held here.

One Confession

The suspect clings almost precisely to the original story he told of the murders when he was arrested Thursday.

Twice he has led the authorities to the spot where the teachers' bodies were found and each time has reiterated his detailed description of how the crime was committed.

Not only has he been able to direct the route, but once on the scene he demonstrated the positions in which the bodies were found.

The suspect insists that he felled the women with a broken fence rail. However, the day the bodies were found, police found a club which had been cut from a tree and which had clots of blood and tufts of hair adhering to it.

Another's Confession

On the other hand, an inmate of the Litchfield, Kentucky, insane asylum, also gives minute details of how he killed the teachers. He told Sheriff Stannard, of Cuyahoga county, and Detective John Shibley, of the Cleveland force, who made a hurried trip to Kentucky Thursday, of a club which he used and which he said he broke off of a peach tree. He also mentioned a shanty near the scene of the crime, and told of washing his hands in a small brook at the foot of the hill.

He also described his attack and struggle with the teachers, but repeated efforts to obtain more information were futile.

This man was admitted to the institution on March 12, several days after the murders were committed. Physicians emphatically assured the officers that the inmate was making an honest effort to recall something that seemed to be preying on his mind.

6 BRITISH COAL MINES FLOOD; MORE MENACED

LONDON, April 2.—Six British coal mines, left to the mercy of in-rushing waters by the strike of miners and pump men, have already been flooded, and some are said to be in such condition that they may be permanently wrecked. Four of these mines are in South Staffordshire, one in the Forest of Dean, County of Gloucester, and one in Flintshire, North-eastern Wales. Several of the older pits in the Lancashire district, and in the Rhondda Valley, Wales, are in imminent danger, and in most of the other coal districts of the island, clerks and volunteers are manning the pumps.

Appeals For Aid Government

Scores of telegraphic appeals reached the government yesterday asking that sailors be sent to help fight against the floods of water pouring into the mines. Various coal dealers' associations are publishing appeals in newspapers, calling upon volunteers with engineering experience to give assistance. The government apparently is taking a grave view of the crisis and is laying plans to deal with emergencies.

To Cut Train Service

Restrictions on train service will begin next Wednesday and a cut of twenty percent will be made effective before the end of next week if the coal strike continues. It was announced at Warwick, a mining center, next Monday and Tuesday, have been cancelled at the government's request.

Another step taken has been to reduce coal consumption for industrial purposes fifty percent, while domestic users of coal will be permitted to purchase only small amounts. Some of the illuminated signs in London already have been voluntarily extinguished, and it is expected that orders will soon be issued prohibiting all such signs. The government also is planning to impose restrictions on shop and street lighting and the public has been asked to economize in the use of gas, electricity and gasoline.

Prepare For Long Siege
Another effect of the embargo on the exports of coal has been an increase for the demand of tonnage to carry American coal to British bunkering stations. A number of ships received orders last night to prepare to distribute supplies of yeast for the nation's bread, should the railroads be shut down. These supplies would be landed at various ports along the coast.

Billy Butt-In THE TIMES' WEATHER MAN

Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.
WASHINGTON, April 1.—Rene Viviani, former premier of France, had a private conference with Senate Lodge, Republican leader, at the latter's residence. It was in itself an informal chat on foreign policies, unofficial in one sense and official in another. It marked a change from past policies and a recognition of the independence of the United States Senate in foreign relations. Hitherto an official envoy as well as all other ambassadors or ministers have dealt alone with the executive branch of our government. The experience at Paris when the allied governments negotiated with President Wilson only to find that the American Senate under the constitution was a co-ordinate factor in treaty-making has taught the French a valuable lesson. They are now as anxious to make plain the facts of the European case to members of the Senate as they are to the executive.

Harding Does Not Object
If Mr. Wilson were president, negotiations between foreign diplomats and members of the Senate would have been resented as an encroachment upon the prerogatives of the executive. But while President Harding is charged with the responsibility of conducting the foreign relations of the United States, he himself was so recently a member of the Senate that he does not object to a line of informal communication being established between the Senate and foreign governments.

ALLIED GUARD TO BE GIVEN FORMER EMPEROR

BUDAPEST, April 2.—Former Emperor Charles, his move for restoration to the government, will leave tonight or tomorrow morning in an automobile on his way back to Switzerland, according to semi-official information today.

The former ruler has been telephoning to Admiral Horthy, the regent, three or four times a day from Steinmanger, beseeching him to change his mind on his declaration to acquiesce in the restoration plans, but the regent has resolutely refused to alter his stand.

The time limit on the Czechoslovak ultimatum for the removal of Charles, from Hungary, was extended today until Sunday at midnight.

M. Pouchet, the French chargé d'affaires here, has promised a French safe conduct for the former emperor. Quiet prevailed in this city today and similar conditions were reported from throughout the country.

VIENNA, April 2.—Former Emperor Charles will leave Steinmanger for Switzerland Sunday evening or Monday, it is reported here. It is planned for him to make the trip by the way of Italy, and the delay in his starting for Switzerland has been occasioned by negotiations with the Italian government for permission for him to pass through that country.

PARIS, April 2.—Dispatches received by the French foreign office today indicate that former Emperor Charles, who in the belief of official circles here has been successfully tricked in his efforts at restoration to the throne of Hungary, will be escorted back to Switzerland by allied officers.

This guard will be given him. It is said to protect him against manifestations on route.

Switzerland is expected again to extend hospitality to the ex-emperor, but with stricter limitations as to his place of residence and movements.

MERCHANTS ENDORSE DAYLIGHT SAVING

Daylight saving for Portsmouth was heartily endorsed by the Retail Merchants' Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Friday afternoon at a meeting at which James Distel is chairman.

The committee heard a committee from the Industrial Baseball Commission this committee presenting a petition signed by many of the owners of the industrial plants, the board of education, the Catholic schools and churches and many business firms.

The endorsement given the plan to move the clocks ahead one hour on May 1 and giving Portsmouth daylight saving by the many interests and business men means that the Peerless City will again have an extra hour of twilight for recreation or work in the garden. Portsmouth falls in line with other large cities in the state where daylight saving has been endorsed.

The committee from the commission included John Underwood, Will Bruch, Earl Clare, H. E. Baughman and Arthur Haman.

The resolution adopted by the Retailers' Committee is as follows:

"Resolved, That the Retailers' Committee of the Chamber of Commerce do hereby favor the adoption of the Daylight Saving plan as endorsed by the other important business and educational interests of this city. And therefore we believe that this concerted action is for the best interests of the city of Portsmouth and the people residing therein."

The preliminary hearing of Green Blevins, aged 20 years, charged with kidnapping Katie Cooper, aged 15 years, daughter of Mert Cooper, Twin Creek farmer, held before Squire McManes Saturday afternoon resulted in the magistrate binding the accused over to the grand jury under $500 bond.

It was alleged that Blevins and his sister, Mary Blevins, aged 17 years, induced the girl to leave her home at Twin Creek late on the night of March 24, 1921, and accompany them to Huntington, W. Va., where they were apprehended and returned here.

The evidence disclosed that Blevins and the Cooper girl were sweethearts, and the latter told the court Blevins and his sister persuaded her to leave with them, stating that Green pained their flight and paid her transportation. She said she slipped away from the home of Andy Siskel, where she was staying, at a late hour and joined the two Blevins and that they stayed in Life Young's barn until morning, when the two girls were ferried across the river at Buena Vista.

Both defendants refused to take the stand in their own behalf, but strenuously denied persuading the girl to leave and asserted she accompanied them of her own accord for the purpose of visiting friends in Huntington for a few days.

By reason of her age, Mary Blevins was sent to juvenile court.

Accused Of Stealing Chickens

Clarence Meadows, aged 17 years, 1110 Front street, and Robert Stevens, aged 19 years, 1140 Mill street, are held at the city jail in connection with the invasion of hen roosts on East Second street Friday night. When taken into custody late Friday night the young men had in their possession 11 chickens which they later confessed to stealing from the coop of George Schweinsberger, 1335 Jackson street, the police say.

Twenty fowls found by the officers in a stable at the rear of the home of the father of the Meadows youth are believed to have been stolen from the coops of John G. Kelly, 1246 Second street, and S. P. Justice, 1238 Second street, although the prisoners denied knowing anything about the theft of these fowls. The police place little credence in their stories because of their persistent denial of the theft of the chickens found in their possession, at first claiming they had bought them from Stevens' brother-in-law, who, on being interviewed, repudiated their statements and asserted that the young men had never bought any chickens from him.

The prisoners are held at the city jail pending their hearing in Municipal court Monday.

Edison, Ford, Firestone, Old Friends Attend Burroughs Funeral

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 2.—In the presence of friends who had assembled from all parts of the nation, simple funeral services for John Burroughs, famous naturalist, were held here this afternoon at Riverby his home.

Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison, Harvey S. Firestone and other friends of Mr. Burroughs, listened to the brief service conducted by the Rev. Franklin D. Elmer, of Colgate University. In addition to scriptural readings, passages from the words of Burroughs, Emerson and Walt Whitman were repeated. Singing of a cradle song was a feature of the service.

Mr. Burroughs' bier was surrounded with the spring-time flowers of nearby fields, where he had often walked. In place of orchids, roses and other flowers of the green house, violets, daffodils and hepaticas had a conspicuous place.

Numerous children from the countryside who had been on intimate terms with the aged naturalist, were among those present at the funeral. The Holy Cross monastery and a Roman Catholic convent, both nearby, also were represented. Burial will take place at "Woodchuck Lodge," Mr. Burroughs' birth place in the Catskills, on the 54th anniversary of his birth.

Negro Flogged, Then Branded With Acid

DALLAS, TEXAS, April 2.—Police today were investigating the activities of masked men who took Alex Johnson, negro bell boy in a Dallas hotel, to a lonely spot south of Dallas, late last night, flogged him and then branded with an acid the letters "K. K. K." on his forehead. Johnson was brought back to Dallas in an automobile and thrown from the machine in front of the hotel where he had been employed.

Six automobiles drove to Johnson's home and a number of masked men placed the negro in one of the cars where he was tied. With lights out, and Johnson pleading for his life, the party drove to a lonely point on Hutchins road. Here he was tied to a fence post and given twenty-five lashes, after having been stripped of clothing to the waist.

The whipping over, Johnson sagged limply against the fence, while a bottle of acid was produced by one of the masked men and branding of the negro's forehead accomplished.

The party was said to have been composed of well dressed white men. Charges were filed in county court last week against Johnson after the police said he had been discovered in the room of a white woman guest at the hotel.

The campaign will be carried on through the school teachers, various women's clubs and business girls and women.

Mrs. E. J. Gates, field secretary of Cincinnati has approved the work here so far and will be here next week to assist in the membership campaign.

The W. C. C. cafeteria has adopted a liberal patronage since it was opened to the public and it is hoped that this department of the Y is kept on a paying basis.

War Over The Vowel Points

By John Collins Jackson

Is it not a matter of which Portsmouth may be proud that more than ten thousand people, young and old, were gathered in her Protestant Bible schools alone last Sunday, for the study of the Scriptures? The Bible is not only the best seller among books, but despite the counter-attractions in all other forms of literature, books, magazines and papers of every sort—political, fashionable, comic, sporting, historical, social and scientific, the Bible beats them all in numbers in anything like classified reading and study. Imagine if you can, over 10,000 people assembled in Portsmouth next Sunday to read or hear explained any work of fiction, poetry, history, philosophy or literature. The Bible embraces all of these, and it stands alone in attracting to itself such gatherings for systematic study of its pages. This, too, the whole world round, year after year, and increasingly more so as time goes on. It would be interesting in this connection if we could tabulate the various interpretations and opinions held on any subject studied by all of these numbers; e. g., the lesson of the Resurrection last Sunday. On the one central truth of almost any subject there is substantial agreement; but as to the how, and the why of each there is endless diversity of opinion. Should not this teach us all a wise and wide toleration of views, where no matter of morals is compromised? Not all opinions can be correct in details where there is such an infinite diversity of views, but all can and do generally agree as to right conduct and manner of moral life; and that only is essential.

Let us not fear for the final triumph of the truth in all such controversies, but fear only that we may be in the wrong, and for that reason try to be tolerant, where we do not see eye to eye in non-essentials. The history of the Hebrew vowel points, with which we closed our article last week, may serve to enforce this Christian tolerance. It is as interesting as it is sad. That the Old Testament was originally written in Hebrew is admitted by all scholars. It is not so commonly known that for many centuries it was held as a cardinal point of faith that the Hebrew was the oldest language in the world—the original language, and that all others arose from the legendary confusion of tongues at the tower of Babel. The Hebrew was therefore considered not only sacred, but also divine; that it was the language which God and the angels spoke in Heaven. The further inference was that it must consequently be perfect, and that it was supernaturally shielded from all error in transmission and translation. Its inspiration was supposed to cover over its accent and punctuation. In short, its writers were mere pen-points in the hand of the Almighty—a view still held by a few extremists.

A Spanish monk, Raymondus Martinus, of the thirteenth century is entitled to the honor of first discovering the truth about vowel points, that they were not used by the original writers, but were an addition of later date. His belief was discredited, however, so universally that it was not till nearly 300 years later, that this fact received some attention, when it was again promulgated, this time by a Jew, Elias Levita.

Then came the Reformation, with its transfer among Protestants of infallibility from the church of Rome to the Bible. Notwithstanding, the increased emphasis now placed on the Scriptures as inerrant, one of the reformers, Zwingli, denied the antiquity of these vowel points. It began to be noticed by thoughtful students of the Hebrew Bible that vowels were not found in the synagogue rolls from which it was taken. In fact, the Talmud did not mention them, and that St. Jerome, (400 A. D.), seemed to know nothing of them.

But theology is conservative above all other things and a long, painful era of contention followed, with scholars equally learned pitted against each other over what was really a non-essential matter. More and more notwithstanding, the truth gradually but slowly gained the ascendancy—that Hebrew was only one of several ancient tongues. With this knowledge came its corollary, that it was human like them, and subject to all the incidents of other languages. Strange and incredible as it may now seem, so slowly did this fact find acceptance that it was not till the year 1850, that the Encyclopedia Britannica dared give the true history of languages now everywhere accepted. What damage followed this disclosure? None whatever! What damage can ever follow truth? But are we sure that we are not still afflicted with false fears on some theological subjects, equally non-essential? The Ark of Safety needs no steady hand of man. If it can finally fail, it is not Divine. "O, ye of little faith," our Lord would say to his timid saints.

"Truth is crushed to earth shall rise again; The eternal years of God are hers; But error, wounded, writhes in pain; And dies amid her worshippers."

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

Bears seem to have been derived from some extinct dog-like ancestor; though fossil remains of bears have been discovered that belong to the typical bear family, says the American Forestry Magazine. C. of C. Leader Says Depression Over; Business On Upward Trend

HUNTINGTON, April 1.—The reopening of the Chesapeake and Ohio shops Friday, is, I am sure, more than satisfying to the citizens of Huntington. C. P. Snow, President of the Chamber of Commerce, banker and business man of Huntington, stated Friday.

"It indicates that the recent depression and dull period, has passed and that we may expect a sure and steady increase in the volume of business throughout the coming year."

"The closing of the shops would be the worst thing that could happen to Huntington, and now that they have reopened with every assurance that they will remain open, we have nothing to fear, and may look to the future with optimism."

THE U. B. CHURCH; WHENCE? WHAT? WHITHER?

The above caption will constitute the Sermonic Themes to be discussed by Rev. E. H. Dailey at the Sunday evening services for the next three weeks at the United Brethren church, corner of Seventh and Gay streets.

From what source came the United Brethren denomination? What incidents surrounded its conception and birth? Is it the offspring of other denominations? What is the present status of the church? Has the United Brethren church as a separate and distinct denomination a future? These and many other interesting questions will be answered in this series of Sunday evening sermon talks.

Coming on the very eve of the General Conference that assembles in Indianapolis May 14, these discussions will doubtless prove very interesting to the entire membership of the church as well as many others who have a desire to become better acquainted with the life and working of the church. These talks will be unbiased and free from the narrow, petty, sectarian ideas that usually accompany the discussions of such themes.

COLUMBUS LECTURER AT TEMPLE THEATRE

"And there shall be no more curse," is the subject that will be used at the Lecture Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the Temple Theatre.

V. W. Beaver of Columbus, O., will be the speaker. Local Bible Students have been endeavoring to secure Mr. Beaver for a public lecture for some time past, but his many lecture appointments made it impossible to secure him here. A number of local people have heard him at other places, and they claim that Mr. Beaver is one of the most forceful and convincing speakers they have ever heard.

As usual, the lecture Sunday afternoon will be free. No collection will be taken and no money solicited in any manner, either directly or indirectly. The public is invited.

STEINKAMP'S

Where Quality Counts In Portsmouth, Ohio.

Thou shalt call His name Jesus, for he shall save His people from their sins."

Just the Beginning

Joining a church is only the beginning of things. Some people are Christians before they join church, but not many work hard at it.

We are all judged by our fruits—whether old church members, or new church members.

The hundreds who lately have joined Portsmouth churches, by studiously learning what Christianity should mean to them, and being willing to do all they can in their own church, will set an example which will help every church in town.

Being a Christian means working—not merely attending a preaching service. We cannot grow unless we actively help others.

Attend the Bible School. Read the Bible at home. Know what God has spoken to the children of men. The Bible is the compass and chart for every Christian. Get the habit of reading it firmly fixed in your day's program.

Attend some church tomorrow.

CHORUS TO RENDER "IMMORTALITY"

After the final rehearsal last evening of the splendid Easter choral cantata by Stull, "Immortality," at the First Presbyterian Church, the director, Mrs. J. M. Stockham, expressed herself as much pleased with the effects secured by soloists and chorus. The latter, being composed entirely of solo voices, makes certain an adequate handling of difficult numbers. Chorus has been added to the cantata, contributing materially to the strength of that part of the chorus.

The soloists will be: Mrs. O. J. Deitzler, Mr. H. H. Mead and Mr. Fred Klingman. Duet will be rendered by Mrs. O. J. Deitzler and Miss Oleta Albertson, and by Mrs. J. E. Lovick and Mr. H. H. Mead. An extra-cantata duet will be sung by Mrs. O. J. Deitzler and Mr. Stockham. Soloists are Mrs. Stockham's splendid organ numbers, always a feature of any program, to be overlooked.

On Mr. Glen de Bruin's periodic visits to the River City, he never misses an opportunity to sing at First Church and it so happens that his remaining over tomorrow happily coincides with the rendering of "Immortality." Mr. de Bruin will sing two solos extra to the cantata. "God's Way—Is the Way," by Lorenz, and a gospel solo, in his rich warm baritone, and a wide circle of friends are expected to make their regular pilgrimage to hear him. Mr. de Bruin, generous as ever, will also sing twice at the morning service—"The Resurrection," and a gospel solo, by Shelley.

The program for the evening will be as follows:
Introduction—Organ. Mrs. J. M. Stockham.
PART ONE: THE PROPHECIES

SMART NEW HATS FOR SUIT AND MORE FORMAL DRESS WEAR

Here are three pretty new hats for both suit and dress wear during the early spring days. At the left is a smart little semi-dress hat showing an odd use of fringe. The fringe is made from colored ribbon draped around the small upturned brim of navy blue straw. There is a bow of ribbon at the back and deep fringed ends finish the bow. The hat is one of the many popular shiny straws.

The small sailor shape shown at the right is of a shiny brown straw braid with brown taffeta facing and ribbon in two shades of brown forming a band on the high crown.

The dress or the tailor suit. The hat in the center is designed for dress wear only and it would be little less than criminal to wear it for anything else. It is called a butterfly model and is made of lace and straw. The brim is wider at the sides than in the front and the crown is made without lining or wiring to conform to the coiffure. The lace of lace at the back forms two butterfly wings and the only trimming is a wreath of black cellophane flowers at the base of the crown. This makes a stunning chapeau for the afternoon frock or the dinner gown.

BILLY WHILKER

Pretty as Violet looked, she was thrown quite in the shade by Maunmy, who appeared in her best blue and tucker, which consisted of a black dress, white apron, white kerchief folded over her bosom and to crown all, a bright red bandana on her head. She would not wear a white cap and as the bandana was most becoming and seemed to suit her exactly, Mrs. West allowed her to wear it. Had anyone been watching her dress they would have seen her twist and twist the bandana in order to get the folds to just suit her. Don't make the mistake of thinking these head-dresses are put on hurriedly or to save trouble, for they are arranged with the greatest care and it takes an expert to make them look artistic. If you doubt this, just try to wind or twist one around your head some time.

Presently they were all seated in the surrey while the spanking boys were clamping their bits with impatience to get off. On the front seat sat Mr. West with Violet between him and Maunmy, and on the back seat was Mrs. West with a friend.

Thursday was cool and the air fresh and odorless with the smell of the roadside flowers.

Violet loved riding, and she pretended that all the trees along the road were her friends, and she knew the shape and name of every bush and pretended that they were bowing to her when they waved their branches.

The mullein and milk-weed clumps she inspected closely to see if the country children on their way to school had bent over to see if the one in whose name they bent them loved them or not. If you have never lived in the country you may not have heard of this little maneuver, so I will tell you how it is managed. You must name the mullein stalk, then lend its long yellow blossom over in the direction in which your loved one lives, and if he or she loves you it will straighten itself in a few days. If not it will remain bent over.

Violet often watched the milk-weed to see how long it would lie after some careless person had broken some of its stalks and left it slowly bleed to death. I have known her, when the weeds have been broken near her home, to go out and try to tie them up where the milk, which is their life-blood, was flowing out, so that they might live.

The flowers, she imagined, liked to bloom unseen, but considered it an honor to die if by so doing it gave pleasure to human beings.

"Papa, stop just one moment. I must have that wild rose to wear in my dress to the fair," and Mr. West stopped, as he always did, to let her get out and pick the coveted blossom. Flowers seemed to be a part of her life and she nearly always had them with her, either in her hair or pinned to her dress. Most often she tucked them in her hair, for she thought that being shaded they would live longer. She would take a little weed of cotton, wet it and wind it around the stem and thus keep them alive for hours. "She always felt sad when she saw half-dead flowers that someone had thrown aside, for she imagined they were suffering."

Having gathered her rose, and a posy for each one in the surrey, she climbed back and they drove fast to make up for lost time. On their way they passed wagon after wagon, and buggy after buggy, all filled with happy, laughing people going to the fair.

Her Own Career

FERN'S VISIT

Gwendolyn went back to her work with renewed energy. And true to his word, Sam Davis raised her salary. With the raise, Gwendolyn promptly went out and bought her father a kodak.

The very one he had always longed for, but never had dared to buy for fear of his wife's tongue-lashing. Mrs. Channing had long since designated amateur photography as "a lot of silly nonsense." This done, she dispatched a large basket of fruit to the now convalescing Fedyia and a wreath for Natalie Stepanoff's coffin. Natalie was buried the next day.

Two days later she went to the hospital to see Fedyia and found him very white and still much shaken from his recent experience. He was pathetically broken and clung to Gwendolyn's hand like a child. "It is so good to see you, Gwendolyn, it is so kind of you to make time for a visit to the old Fedyia, in spite of all your business."

They avoided the subject of the tragedy, by mutual consent, and after a half hour's visit Gwendolyn left, promising to return the next afternoon.

"And the little Fern, what is she doing? Won't she find time, too, to come and see Fedyia," he pleaded. "I want to see her so much, so much, poor child. She has changed greatly, our Fern, hasn't she, Gwendolyn?"

"Yes, she is much quieter," said Gwendolyn, pensively. "But she could not be sweeter than she always was, to my way of thinking."

"It is this quality of quietness that makes her like a new girl to me. It makes her so interesting and so, so beautiful."

Babylonian Division of Time.
The Babylonians gave us an hour with 60 minutes. They divided the sun's path into 24 parasangs, a parasang equal to about four and a half miles, or the distance a Babylonian soldier could hike in an hour with full pack. The astronomers of that day somehow worked it out that the sun made the same progress. They divided the sun's whole course into 24 parasangs, or 360 degrees, each parasang, or hour, being divided into 60 minutes, and then, having fallen on evil days, they banded the system down to the Greeks, who passed it on.

Public Speaking.
The first rule for public speaking, therefore, is: Have something that you desire very much to say. The second rule is: Always speak in a natural key, and in a conversational manner. The days of pompous and stilted eloquence are gone by, and it was perhaps Wendell Phillips more than anybody else who put an end to it in this country, and substituted a simpler style.—Thomas Wentworth Higginson, "Hints on Speech-Making."

Good Building Insulation.
Corrugated cardboard of the kind used for packing cases can be used for insulating buildings against the cold, such insulation being particularly desirable in barns and poultry houses. The boxes are opened along the joints and flattened out, the material being applied with short nails and tin washers, such as used for the application of roofing paper.

PRETTY NEW SPRING COSTUMES FOR FORMAL OCCASIONS

Many indeed are the pretty new styles for the more formal occasions of spring. There will be at least two months of real spring this year after Lent is over and before summer begins for Easter is very early this season. Here are three costumes which almost any woman would find useful. At the left is an afternoon gown of checked silk in blue and ecru which is combined with blue georgette. In the center is a very smart little silk cape for wear on the warm and sultry evenings of spring. These capes are to be the vogue late into the summer. This one is made of white canton crepe and features a large, gracefully draped collar which ties in the front. White silk fringe forms the only trimming. The dark frock at the right is designed for the formal dinner or dance and is made of henna charmeuse over which gray colvich falls in straight slender lines. A metal girdle which might have come from ancient Egypt marks a low waistline.

Five Sunday School Night Messages On Second Coming Of Christ At The First Baptist Church

The people of Portsmouth are to be given a great opportunity to hear a systematic and detailed discourse on one of the most vital subjects of the hour, "The Second Coming of Christ." The pastor of the First Baptist church has had a wide experience as a teacher for several years at the "National Bible Institute," Philadelphia, Pa., one of the strongest Pre-Millennial schools of the east, he was also pastor of a strong evangelistic and missionary church in Philadelphia. The summer work consisted in open-air services, the Carroll park, street meetings, gospel tent and large gospel car which was kept going nearly every night during the summer. This work is attributed largely to the blessed hope of our Lord's return. We are expecting great crowds at these Sunday night services. All are welcome.

PEACE BE UNTO YOU
The message of the risen Christ to His afflicted disciples on at least two occasions when He appeared to them after His Resurrection was "Peace be unto you." Just what did Jesus mean by these beautiful words? Do they apply to His followers today? At the 7:00 p. m. service at All Saints' church tomorrow the pastor will take this salutation for his text. His sermon will bring to all who hear it a message of peace. Surely you will wish to hear how the "peace" which passeth all understanding waits to enter your life and bless it. You are cordially invited in the name of the "Prince of Peace" to worship with us tomorrow. There will be special Easter music both morning and evening and at the close of the evening service the choir will sing a festival "Te Deum" before the altar as token of our gratitude to God for the resurrection of His Son Jesus Christ Our Lord.

All Saints' church is at the corner of Fourth and Court streets just two squares west of Chillicothe on Fourth.

Drug Stores Will Be Closed Sunday
Portsmouth's drug stores will remain closed tomorrow. This course was decided upon Friday afternoon at a meeting of drugists when nearly everyone present expressed his willingness to keep his place of business closed while awaiting further developments in the Sunday closing matter. The drugists in the majority seemed to be willing to remain closed the greater part of the day opening up just for certain hours on Sunday. They will meet next Friday to take further action on the Sunday closing proposition.

The new officers of the Portsmouth Drugists Association are Henry P. Wiggins, president, and George M. Webb, secretary and treasurer. The former president was John W. Flood and the former secretary-treasurer Dan Thomas.

MAYBE "SHE COULDN'T HELP IT," BUT BEBE COULDN'T CONVINCE THE JUDGE

Bebe Daniels, motion picture star who played the leading role in "She Couldn't Help It" and other films, has been sentenced to ten days in jail by Judge Cox of Los Angeles, Cal., on a charge of speeding. The judge denied her a retrial. Unless Bebe appeals the case she'll have to spend the days behind the bars. Bebe was accused of ambling along at about fifty miles an hour. "No such thing," declares the pretty star.

OFFICIALS IN OHIO CITIES FACE REMOVAL FOR FAILURE TO ENFORCE THE LAWS

COLUMBUS, O., April 2.—Officials in two Ohio cities are said to be facing removal from office for failure to enforce prohibition laws, according to a statement issued today by Don V. Parker, state prohibition commissioner.

The cities were not named in the statement of the prohibition commissioner. He announced that only immediate change of front on the part of these officials by strict suppression of the liquor traffic will prevent action being taken for their removal.

Mayors in five Ohio cities have been warned by the state prohibition department, according to Parker. In two of these cities, he said, evidence had been gathered against local officials who may be charged with neglect of duty if conditions are not improved.

The state prohibition commissioner urged local civic organizations to insist on prohibition laws in their communities being enforced. He endorsed the plan adopted in several cities of having special police squads designated to look after prohibition violations exclusively.

"With the governor's assurance that he will rid the cities of dishonest and lax officials," our inspectors "are instructed to get evidence of law violations and of official laxity, no matter in what quarter," said Commissioner Parker. He said frequenters of speakeasies in cities are being subpoenaed by prohibition inspectors to furnish evidence against lax enforcement of the laws and that their punishment for perjury will be sought where they refuse to tell the truth.

Declines In New Oil Operations

OIL CITY, PA., April 2.—Reductions in the price of crude oil during the past three months were marked by declines in new operations throughout the country, according to the monthly review of the oil industry, compiled by The Derrick and made public here today.

The report showed that during March there were 2,004 completions, a decrease of 153, as compared with February. Work under construction at the close of the month aggregated 7,234 rigs and drilling wells, as compared with 7,830 for the previous month. New production was 224,351 barrels, an increase of 31,137. There were 488 dry holes and 220 gas wells.

Uncle Sam Knows Group Which Plotted Wall Street Blast

NEW YORK, April 2.—Agents of the Department of Justice have known for some weeks the identity of the radical group responsible for the Wall Street explosion last September, William J. Flynn, chief of the bureau of investigation, declared here.

He asserted that it was the same group which had plotted the wide-spread bombings of 1919 when explosions occurred in Washington, New York, Boston and other cities and the home of former Attorney General Palmer was attacked. Its members have scattered and some are in foreign lands, according to Flynn.

Flynn added that his agents were pressing their hunt for the fugitives.

COURT HOUSE

Reconciliation Advised

A divorce and alimony is sought by Sarah Spriggs, Sixth and Broadway streets, in an action filed in Common Pleas court Friday against Daniel C. Spriggs, Navaro, whom she married Nov. 9, 1908.

Through Attorney T. C. Beatty the plaintiff alleges neglect, declaring that the defendant has failed and refused to support her or furnish her with a home.

At the end of a hearing on her application for an allowance of temporary alimony Saturday, Judge Thomas advised the couple to patch up their differences and live together again, but failure to reach an agreement the court intimated would result in an order requiring the defendant to pay his wife $50, although he, Spriggs, insisted he had paid out for debts all the money he received in payment for a team of horses and other personal property recently.

Transcript Filed

A transcript from the docket of Squire McManus in the paternity case of Ethel Mae Hallett against Roy Briggs was filed in the office of the clerk of courts Friday. The defendant was held by the magistrate under a writ of habeas corpus.

Wife Must Testify

The divorce suit of Oscar C. Newman, Brush Creek township, farmer, against Harriet A. Newman, of Hotchkiss, near Otway, was partially heard by Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Saturday and then continued until April 16 when the defendant will be required to appear in court to testify in her own behalf.

They were married Jan. 14, 1914, and Newman alleged willful absence, testifying that she deserted him nearly six years ago wholly without cause or excuse and has since refused to live with him although often requested to do so. The plaintiff is represented by Attorney W. L. Hostetter.

Decree Granted Wife

On the grounds of willful absence and neglect Oey McGowan, Hales Creek, was granted a decree by Judge Thomas, Saturday divorcing her from John McGowan, former Illinois township man, now said to be living somewhere in Michigan.

They were married Jan. 4, 1915, and the plaintiff told the court he failed to support her and their child, now aged 5 years, and deserted her on frequent occasions, the last time in 1917 when he enlisted in military service. She further declared that he neglected her for association of other women. T. T. Moreland, attorney for plaintiff.

Suit On Account

Suit to collect the sum of $1636.50 with interest from August 21, 1920, alleged to be due on an account was filed by the Val Hatz Brewing Company in Common Pleas court Friday against Louis M. Distel, proprietor of the Crystal Palace pool room and soft drink establishment at 2124 Gallia street.

The plaintiff sued through Attorneys Miller and Searl.

Wife Sues For Divorce

Sarah Hicks, 1114 Kendall avenue, filed a petition in Common Pleas court Saturday in which she is seeking a divorce and alimony from Edward Hicks, whom she married April 22, 1909.

Through Attorneys Blair and Blair the plaintiff in her bill of complaint says that at the April 1920 term of Common Pleas court Hicks was convicted of the crime of abandonment, his legitimate children and sentenced to the penitentiary and that he is now employed on the prison farm in Madison county. She further alleges that the defendant prior to his being sentenced to the penitentiary was guilty of cruelty toward her, failed to support her and her children and drank intoxicating liquor to excess. The wife also seeks the custody of their four minor children.

Important Developments Brewing As The Result Of Viviani Visit To America

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2.—Interest in the administration's attitude towards the general subject of a peace settlement, revived by the visit here of former Premier Viviani, was further intensified today by a series of conferences which had every outward appearance of embracing a general discussion to prepare administration officials for a decision on such subjects as a separate peace resolution and an amended League of Nations.

As a member of the League of Nations commission on amendment of the covenant, Mr. Viviani naturally is much interested in that subject and it was taken for granted that he would be called to take home with him a definite estimate of the American viewpoint on covenant amendments, even though that was not the primary purpose of his visit. In the same way, he is naturally interested in any movement for a separate peace between the United States and Germany.

One of the first callers at the White House today was Colonel George Harvey, of New York, selected for ambassador to Great Britain. Colonel Harvey conferred with Secretary Hughes at the state department also.

Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, author of the separate peace resolution, voted by President Wilson, also was on President Harding's list of callers today, as was Stephen Layman, a French journalist.

The impression that important developments might be strengthened by dispatches from Paris which suggested that the French foreign office was expecting some announcement to come soon from Secretary Hughes. Mr. Viviani conferred with Mr. Hughes for an hour during the week, and although the explanation made of that visit, too, was that it was to "pay respect," it was inferred in official circles that the conversation must inevitably have touched upon important questions at issue in the peace problem.

Such information as President Harding has gathered regarding the real mission and opinions of Mr. Viviani has come to him indirectly thus far from the former French premier having been only a few minutes with the president when he formally presented a message of greeting several days ago. He will be the president's guest, however, at a White House dinner Wednesday night at which Mr. Herick will also be present.

PARIS, April 2.—Great gratification is expressed here over the reception accorded Rene Viviani, former French premier, who is in America on special mission for the French government. Several dispatches from Mr. Viviani have reached Paris, but it was indicated today that it will be left to Secretary Hughes to give out whatever he considers proper concerning the conversations the envoy has with the American officials.

The Seven Weeks' War.

The Seven Weeks' war was a brief war in 1866 between Prussia and Italy on one side and Austria and her German allies (Bavaria, Wurtemberg, Baden, Saxony, Hesse-Cassel, Hanover, Nassau) on the other. The war was the culmination of Bismarck's plan for forcing Austria out of the German confederation and making way for a new Germany under Prussian leadership.

Revolt of Small Masculinity.

Larry's mamma had been trying to impress it on his mind that little boys should always be polite to little girls and let them be first in games and play. But this did not seem to appeal to Larry that day, and he remarked in an injured tone: "I wish there was a special kind of boy that didn't need to give up to girls."

Discouraging Forgery.

A message from Prague states that a method has been discovered of making more difficult the passing of forged bank notes, says a Copenhagen correspondent to the London Telegraph. The invention consists of imbedding in the paper on which bank notes are printed quantities of fine steel and nickel particles. Such paper responds to the attraction of a magnet, and any one can thus easily test the genuineness of a note.

Serious Disorders In Londonderry

BELFAST, April 2.—Serious disorders occurred in Londonderry last evening. Constable Higgins was shot and killed by assailants who escaped. Two bombs were thrown at the electric light station, and two soldiers were wounded, and in rifle firing, following the attack, two civilians were injured. The station property was not damaged by the explosion.

An attack was made on the police barracks on Lecky Road and two constables were wounded before police reinforcements, which arrived in an armored car, beat off the attacking party. Rifle firing could be heard during the night, and great excitement prevailed. It is said in a dispatch received here.

"And There Shall Be No More Curse"

(Rev. 22:3)

According to the Bible a "curse" was imposed upon mankind because of disobedience in Eden. Not only was the race placed under a curse, but the earth was also placed under a curse. (Gen. 3:17).

No real blessings can come to the race until this curse shall have been rolled away. How will this be done? When will it be done? WHY will it be done? Has God who "changes not" changed His mind and decided that He was too severe? How is this, and what does it mean?

J. PARKER READ Jr. presents
HOBART BOSWORTH
in
A Thousand To One
Directed By R. V. LEE
Personally Supervised
By J. PARKER READ Jr.
The romance of the man who lost - and won

Tonight, at the Exhibit Theatre, Associated Producers Present the Virile Star Hobart Bosworth in "A Thousand To One," the Story of a Man Who Whipped Himself. Hobart Bosworth, the Sea Dog, Hobart Bosworth, the Cow-puncher, Hobart Bosworth, the Two-Fisted. These three Hobart Bosworths are famous to the public. But tonight, at the Exhibit Theatre, we will see a still different Hobart Bosworth in his first Associated Producers vehicle made by J. Parker Read, Jr. It is called "A Thousand To One" and in it we see him, virile, likeable Hobart as a waster, a dilettante, if you please - in short, a rascal.

Imagine Bosworth as a rotter? "But it isn't for long, folks - this characterization exists only for about two reels when a terrific train wreck brings this episode in the star's screen life to an end and on top of the wreckage emerges the new man. From this point onward the story becomes absorbing. The character development is superb, adding further laurels to Bosworth's histrionic crown. The production is as faultless as we have ever seen in an outdoor production and there are some interiors that make us wish to see more of bosworny Hobart Bosworth in dress clothes "putting on the dog."

Elmer Grey Terry plays opposite the star and gives a capable performance as the girl who has been tricked into marriage for the sake of her fortune, but who ultimately finds love and happiness in the arms of the star. While you all will agree is eminently proper and satisfactory.

ENGLISH FILM BEAUTY TO INVADE AMERICAN MOTION PICTURE FIELD

Ivy Duke, famous film beauty of England.

Some of our famous film favorites had better look to their laurels, for Miss Ivy Duke, the famous film beauty of England, is coming to America to make new pictures. And that is not all of the story - some of her films made in England will be imported too. She is the vanguard of the English invasion of the American motion picture field.

Rev. Powell Speaks At Temple

"The Fatherhood of God" was the text of a discourse delivered at the Jewish Temple Friday evening by Rev. E. Almer Powell, pastor of All Saints Episcopal church, in response to an invitation of the congregation, which speaks the growth of liberalism in this community and the departure from the hide bound rules of sectarianism.

Rev. Powell was given a warm greeting and he spoke extemporaneously and his sermon was full of interest. He made many profound and telling references to the commonality of the people that there is little difference in people, only by their conduct. All denominations of religion base their whole structure on the morality of the people and they encourage. Devotion is necessary and is the product of faith. The speaker told of the religious work going on and pointed out its necessity throughout the world to bring the people out of the chaos of war, the misfortunes of nations we have been brought in closer touch and have been made to realize that we are not so far apart but traveling for the same goal, life eternal in the heavens.

A. Schapiro read the service and the choir under the leadership of Mrs. Vaughn Finney rendered most appropriate music.

Mystery Shrouds Murder Of A Detroit Rector

DETROIT, MICH., April 2.—The identity of the person who shot and killed the Rev. Leo Jarecki, rector of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church, at Wyandotte, near here, last night, and the assassin's motive remained shrouded in mystery early today. Authorities had established, however, that a person familiar with the priest's household was implicated in the act.

Father Jarecki was at the rectory with his housekeeper, when he answered a ring at the door and was shot down, his assailant fleeing in an automobile.

Earlier in the evening an unidentified person called Father Jarecki on the telephone, made an appointment with him and was given directions by the priest by which to find the rectory.

Father Jarecki was born in Sakla, Poland, in 1876. He was ordained in Rome in 1900 and immediately came to Detroit.

Mr. Rickey Is Chairman

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce have appointed Orla E. Rickey as chairman of the Forum Steering Committee to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of L. P. Haldeman. He has accepted and will get to work at once with the Committee on plans to increase attendance at forum luncheons.

Pirates Must Obey Order

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 2.—Members of the Pittsburgh National League baseball club who wish to play golf hereafter must gain the consent of the manager before taking to the links, according to word received today from Manager George Gibson, who is leading the team on an exhibition tour through the West. Gibby intimated that certain players were paying more attention to golf than to baseball, and he attributed the loss of a game yesterday to this cause. "No more golf after today without my permission," Gibby told the Pirates.

Going To Texas

Mrs. Edward Donalds and son, Edward, will leave Monday for Houston, Texas, where they will join Mr. Donalds, who is a member of the Houston team and is pitching fine ball for that club.

Boy Scout Saves Girl

NORTHBEND, OREGON, April 2.—James Haggman, a young boy scout, plunged into the bay here and saved three-year-old Theresa Bacon, who had fallen through a hole in the wharf. It was learned today. The little girl was carrying the child away when the boy reached her and swam to a pier, holding her above water until safely landed.

Will Oppose Federal Sales

CHICAGO, April 2.—Formation of the Farmers' Federal Tax League of America, which will oppose the federal sales tax was announced today by Eugene Frey, of Argyle, Illinois, secretary and treasurer of the organization. George F. Conings, former lieutenant governor of Wisconsin, is president of the league.

"Powerful interests," said Mr. Frey, "are preparing to shift further the burden of taxation upon the farmers and the farmers must organize to make felt their influence if this attempt is to be prevented."

Referendum On Wage Cut

CHICAGO, April 2.—The building trades council of Chicago today submitted to a referendum vote the proposal of the Building Contractors' Association for a reduction in wages of skilled mechanics and building laborers. The council claims a membership of 5,000.

The contractors proposed a reduction from $1.25 an hour to $1.00 for mechanics and from $1.00 to 70 cents for laborers, which was refused. Acceptance of the reduction, the contractors said, would result in letting of $100,000,000 in building contracts within thirty days. It is estimated by union officers that 35,000 building tradesmen are unemployed.

Material for Vivisectionists.

A writer in the Baltimore American says: "It is a rare part of man's life which is not touched by the friendship of dogs. Books of experience in the World War are coming from the presses by scores, and it is interesting to note that practically every one of them has dog stories and the theme of these stories is faithfulness unto death. There is the intelligence, too, and the whole happy history of dog character is enriched by new instances of noble acts."

HERE'S LATEST FRENCH FASHION IN PERAMBULATORS TO REACH AMERICA

Lieut. and Mrs. Howard Newman holding Howard Jr. in his sedan chair. It was left for a little baby boy to introduce Paris' newest fad to the United States. He is little Howard Newman Jr. He recently returned from France with his parents on the U. S. transport Somme. He returned in state, as it were, in his own private carriage. "Perhaps a 'sedan chair' is a better name for it. At any rate it is the thing in which he is sitting in the photograph."

Sinn Fein To Contest All Elections

DUBLIN, April 2.—The statement of Sinn Fein to the Irish newspapers that all seats in the coming elections in the south of Ireland would be contested by Sinn Fein and in the north by a combination of Sinn Fein and the Nationalists confirms previous expectations. It is declared here that it was a persistent rumor that the Sinn Fein would side against the Sinn Fein which led to the inscription on a banner in the St. Patrick's Day parade in New York, saying: "As much religion as you like from Rome, but no politics."

To Clean Hair Brushes. To clean hair brushes take a cupful of cornmeal and fill the brush, rubbing gently with the hand. As it absorbs the grease and dirt shake it out and use fresh meal till the brush is cleaned thoroughly. This is better than ammonia, as there is no water to injure or loosen the back of the brush.

Great Minds Linked With Geneva. Geneva and its lake early became the mecca of leaders in science and literature. Voltaire, Mme. de Staël, Georges Sand, Dumas, Daudet and Byron, Gibbon, Dickens, Ruskin, Frances Haegeral, Sismondi, De Saure, Amiel—a veritable parade of illustrious poets, novelists, essayists, philosophers and scientists—have linked their names forever with that fair city and its environs.

Boston's Building Trades' Strike Comes To End

BOSTON, April 2.—The strike of 15,000 workers in the building trades, which has been in effect since January 19, was ended here today, the United Building Trades Council accepting the state board of conciliation's $1 an hour proposition pending arbitration of its differences with employers. All of the workers involved will return to their jobs Monday, it was reported.

Mistakes We Often Make. There is a proverb which reads — "The man who never made a mistake never made anything else." There is a great deal of truth in that saying. Sometimes we come across one of those perfect individuals who claims never to make mistakes, but more often we find that these very same persons not only make mistakes but very grave ones.

Wolves Make Fine Finish

By winning three straight games from the High School Faculty Friday the Wolves managed to finish the season in the 500 class, the three games giving them 32 victories, which match up with their 32 defeats. The Wolves have made a splendid record, going into the league after it was started several weeks and with a team that did not at that time give promise of rounding into a victorious volley ball aggregation.

The Wolves won all three by good margins, the scores being 21 to 9, 21 to 11, 21 to 6.

HOW ABOUT IT, WHEELERSBURG SELECTS?

The Bigelow Specials are still trying to book a game with the Wheelersburg Selects, a much larger team than the church five, but to date the Specials have been unable to contract a game with the village five. The Specials have agreed to play the Wheelersburg five on their own terms, but that has not succeeded in bringing the Specials a game. The Specials are anxious to play the Selects before the close of the basketball season.

Bohne Is Real Find

Third Baseman Bohne continues his good work for the Reds. This had promises to be one of the real finds of the season. He is fast on the bases, has a good "noodle" and can field and bat.

The South Webster baseball nine is organizing for the season and is already to book games. C. E. Paul is manager of the team this season. His address is South Webster.

MATCH GAME

Tonight at 7:30 at the Selby alters the Selby All Stars, headed by Paul Bamer, will roll three games with the Excelsior bowling five.

The Yodeling of the Swiss

Yodeling is a peculiar manner of singing by using the falsetto voice in harmonic progressions, with sudden and unexpected changes to notes of the chest register. It exists chiefly among the Tyrolese and Swiss mountaineers.

Friday evening April 8 is the date set for the annual banquet of the Selby Bowling League.

This will be the second annual banquet at which time new officers will also be elected. President Harry Hobbett who has so ably filled the president's chair this season has appointed a nominating committee that will make its report at the banquet which will be served at 5:30 in the Selby restaurant room. At this time every player about 125 in number will no doubt raise his average 50 pins or more and it is quite possible that several will roll perfect scores of 300. Homes C. Selby is chairman of the banquet committee and working with him are Watson Goddard, Blaine Nardi, Forest Bauman and William Seyfried. The committee is laying a hard time arranging a menu all on account of the last named member on the committee, as St. does not have any teeth right at the time and insists on soup and soft boiled eggs as the main feature on the menu.

The bachelors are hoping that the other members of the committee will win over. The first banquet last year was a big success but this year's affair is expected to be better than ever.

Mobile Fight Ends In Arrests

NEW YORK, April 2—As a result of a fight at Mobile, Alabama, yesterday between Coy Dolan of the New York Nationals, and Edward Lauzon, a French Canadian, both were arrested and cuffed into Mobile court today. Lauzon, it is said, came to blows with Dolan following disputed decisions. It is alleged that Lauzon drew a knife from his pocket and attacked Dolan. George Kelly, the Giants' first baseman, also was arrested in connection with the affair.

Pratt Will Return To Game

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 2—The University of Michigan athletic board of control is to meet tonight to decide whether Derrill Pratt, baseball coach, shall be released from his contract, to join the Boston Red Sox. It is understood Pratt decided to return to professional baseball after the Michigan team returns from its southern training trip, if the board gives its consent. Pratt signed up with Michigan for three years as an all-year coach and began his duties last October. Since then he has assisted in football and basketball, and had full charge of baseball activities.

Golf At Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2—A close finish in the north and south open golf championship was expected today when the field played the final 36 holes here. Jack Hutchinson, of Chicago, and George Fotheringham, of Bretton Woods, who led the field at the close of yesterday's play, were paired together this morning and a large gallery trailed behind them. Hutchinson looked like a probable winner with some of the finest talent in America struggling to nose him out. Players considered as likely to finish in the money were Hutchinson, Fotheringham, Peter and Pat O'Hara, Leo Diegel, Fred McLeod, Emmet French, Alex Ross, Walter Hagen and J. W. Kirkwood, the Australian open champion.

The umpire, it is alleged, was struck in the eye before police could reach him. The scores: New York Nationals, 2 5 3 Philadelphia Americans, 3 7 2 Douglas, Toney and Snyder, Perkins, Hasty, Kinnell, Perry and Smith.

Now Jack Is Talking

Here is what one Jack Shepard had to say in the Huntington Herald Dispatch about his coming fight in that city with Johnny Martin:

"I have read a lot about Johnny Martin and his past record, but it worries me not. It isn't what you used to be that counts. I intend to fight Martin from the tap of the opening bell until the last jerk of the gong, and if there is anyone that is going to back up or give ground, it won't be Jack Shepard."

But It's Not Mahogany.

The Spanish or cigar box cedar, known locally as cedar, is not a mahogany wood but belongs to the mahogany family, says the American Forestry Magazine. In fact it finds its way into the market as mahogany and may not be readily distinguished from that wood except by its odor.

SOMETHING IN NAMES

WE are wondering how the people of the Sciotoville territory will take the new names in prospect for their streets.

If they have been in common use it isn't likely it will be a pleasant change. However, it should be accepted in the fact that it was a necessity. Many names were the same as those of the older and larger part of the city and it was expedient to alter them in order to prevent ever recurring confusion, especially in the addressing of mail.

Choosing names for streets wasn't found by the committee altogether as easy and plain as assumed. Points that had to be held in mind in making the selections were to get names that were not numerous in other cities and that would be easy to pronounce and easier to spell, if possible, coupled with a desire to perpetuate the memory of old families that had borne a good part in the early history of the territory.

When referring to names easy to spell, the idea isn't solely to get one where the letters are of easy arrangement, but one where any attempt to write it will give a sound somewhat equivalent. Take for instance, in this case two names fixed upon, Farney and Ira. It doesn't look possible to mis-spell them, but any postal clerk or carrier knows that surely if any number of letters should come addressed to these streets, they will be written as often as not respectively Farney, Forny, Forne, Iry, Ire, Eirey and divers other ways.

Little duplication of names is desirable because the name of the street often serves to expedite the transmission of a letter. Letters often come to this Portsmouth that are intended for either the Virginia or New Hampshire city of the same name and by looking at a national street directory it can be ascertained from the street names, for which of the two it is intended. Likewise it is not an infrequent occurrence that letters are directed to one city, while they should go to another of entirely different. In such instances if such street name, for example, as King's Highway, or Euclid avenue, be borne, it is readily determined that the letter is intended for St. Louis, or Cleveland, as the case may be, and it can be so forwarded, escaping a trip to the dead letter office. But if the wrong city be given and the street be Market, Main, First or any numeral, it stands scant chance of delivery.

FINDING THE PLACE

IT is said Myron T. Herriek may be appointed ambassador to France.

That brings up the saying that there is a peg for every hole. The difficulty is in finding the complement of the other.

Once Myron T. Herriek, joyously known then as "Cousin Myrick" was chosen governor of Ohio. Poe and friend alike unanimously elected him in this instance the peg utterly failed to fit the hole. "Cousin Myrick" as chief executive was a gorgeous failure and at the next election was the worst defeated candidate that ever was nominated to succeed himself.

Once, after this painful experience Myron T. Herriek was appointed minister to France. This was a case where the peg found the right hole and he therein discounted all predictions and fears by making a dazzling success.

May be the startling difference in his two official careers lay in the kind of men he had to deal with. Here in Ohio he was pestered to death by little politicians and small job seekers; in France he had big affairs and big men to deal with. In one instance he was out of his element, in the other he had matters that seemed worth while to deal with and he addressed himself to them with an entirely different measurement and understanding.

In view of the rather strange relations that this country bears with its late war associates it would seem we could scarce find a representative to one of the chief ones, that would have so much prestige to begin with as Myron T. Herriek.

The B. and O. is going to give the N. and W. the complete go-by and receive and discharge passengers at its own station. Well, they at least will not have to waddle in the mud down there. There is a wooden platform in direct contact with the paved street.

"John D." is so pained and grieved at the Harding administration calling the convict Eugene V. Debs to Washington to confer with it that he means out real loud and several times: "I don't understand." Poor "John D." he comes from Old Kaintuck, where they are all novices in practical politics.

Gently, but firmly, we point out to the friends of Irish Freedom that Warren Gamaliel Harding has been president for 20 full days now and the Green Isle isn't free, nor have we seen any signs of Uncle Sam arising any shaking his fist under Johnny Bull's nose. Strange world, my masters, stranger people, good sirs.

Some team the Cincinnati Reds have got this year, sure. It beat the Oklahoma City bushers 11 to 9 Thursday.

THE NEWS IN PICTURES

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2.—Since and during the recent presidential campaign, that latest development of modern journalism, the telling of news by photography, reached probably its highest point to date. The average reader hardly realizes or appreciates the fact that his newspaper is enabling him to see the world and its great characters without budging from his chair. The personalities of the news, especially, are brought before him just as they live and work.

Ten years ago the public man or woman was comparatively safe from the camera man. A posed studio picture showing the subject at his or her best was all the public expected or asked. The hero or villain of the moment was shown in the newspapers as he appeared in the newspapers, the expression that usually accompanied such garb. A woman appeared in public print adorned as for a ball or some other formal social function. If she possessed jewels she was shown wearing them, and her expression generally was the complacent smirk that adorns the face of even the most modest of mortals when told to "look pleasant, please."

There was no question of letting the picture tell the story. From all the public could learn from the pictures shown them, their idols spent their entire time smiling stiffly into space or gazing dreamily into the heart of a rose. A visiting princess and the latest murderess received the same treatment.

Today the formal, posed studio picture, though still used extensively, fails to satisfy the newspaper reading public. The readers demand to see their favorites as they work and play. They want to see them with their hair mussed, if they are the kind whose hair is apt to be mussed. They want them human.

If the particular hero is a baseball gambler the public wants to see him in action or at home playing with his dogs and children. If he is a politician here they want to see him busy at the desk where he habitually transacts business or out on the golf links for a bit of exercise.

The Whole Official Family

Nor does the public curiosity stop at the hero himself. It is interested in his wife, his children, his house, his dogs, his horses and everything that concerns him. No member of the household is safe from the prying eyes of the little black box that spells satisfaction for the public demand.

It would be a hopeless task to attempt to enumerate the thousands of snapshots of the presidential candidates which were made in the last election. Candidates Cox and Harding were shown all over the country at play and at work. Their wives and families were known by sight to practically every man, woman or child in the country. A picture of Mrs. Harding pinning a rose in her distinguished husband's lapel, was reproduced in almost every newspaper in the nation. The picture was one of a few dozen snapped of the successful candidate and his wife the morning of their return to Washington from the convention at Chicago. They were breakfasting when the army of camera men descended upon them and left their coffee to cool to obey the behest of their visitors. Facing the camera gracefully has become an essential to political success.

A jolly picture of candidate Cox playing with his daughter, Anne, probably won for her daddy more votes than many of his speeches. One of the Democratic candidate's first assets for publicity was admittedly his youngest. This particular picture was, it might be added, not snapped by a news-photographer but by the wife of the Ohio governor's best friend, Mrs. Timothy Ainsberry, of Washington. The picture was borrowed of the lady by a news pictorial syndicate and by them sent throughout the country.

Ten or fifteen years ago the news picture field in Washington was practically unexplored. Today a dozen or so camera men spend the entire day at the White House. It would be a clever man who could pay a call upon the chief executive and slip away unphotographed. Nor are the visitors the sole reasons for the camera men's attention to the White House. Nothing concerning the life of the present tenants is allowed to remain unphotographed. Laddie Boy, the Albrecht puppy presented to President Harding by an Ohio admirer, has been photographed so often since his arrival at the White House that he is said to have acquired the camera face. The sheep belonging to President Wilson were the targets for hundreds of cameras.

Wilson's Fight For Privacy.
President Wilson, it will be remembered, during his illness refused to be photographed. A picture of him lying ill would have been worth a small fortune to the photographer lucky enough to have made it. Upon his return to health and at the beginning of the motor rides that became during the last months of his term of office a daily occurrence, he was carefully guarded by Secret Service men whose sole duty was to prevent the camera men from making his picture. One enterprising photographer hired a room in a club by which the White House car passed each day, and setting up a long distance lens, waited patiently day by day to get the coveted picture. The picture, if successful, never appeared. Perhaps the picture was "fuzzy." The photographer in fact said so. But it was whispered among the photographers that the film was destroyed.

Another, during night of the little black box hired a hay wagon, concealed himself in the hay with his long distance lens and tried to snap the president as he busied in the sun on the south steps of the White House. The Secret Service men saw the wagon, supposedly broken down near the White House fence, was investigated. Again the picture never appeared. Camera men were forbidden admittance to the state, war and navy building because the east windows of the building overlooked the White House grounds.

President Wilson, however, finally consented to pose. It is said the good offices of Admiral Gragson won the camera men this favor. The picture was made as the executive car left the White House grounds. Half an hour after it was made, the picture was going by fast express, and plane to the various Philadelphia, New York and other out-of-town papers that had ordered it.

The new administration has been kind to the cameramen. With but one exception President Harding's personal and official family have done everything in their power to aid the photographers. The exception, the wife of one of the cabinet secretaries, has earned the enmity of practically the entire press of the city by her constant refusal to permit her picture to be made. In reprisal her house is besieged by camera men. Her footsteps are dogged by earnest young men who have apparently but one purpose in life, to snap her picture. She has been forced to have her telephone removed to silence the incessant buzz that made her days miserable with requests for pictures. The camera men have declared war and it is a safe bet that the tale will end with the lady's surrender.

In the few weeks since March 4, the faces of the secretaries, their families and friends, have become as familiar to the average American as pictures of their own families. Truly, the great now have, in God's delightful phrase, "no more privacy than a gold fish." Perhaps good taste has been transgressed at times. Perhaps even a woman's right to be alone is invaded because her husband has climbed office. But on the whole the camera men have certainly enlivened the political news with a fresh and vivid interest.

Doctrine of Reincarnation.

The doctrine of a previous existence being made manifest to the individual is very old, and certain sects, especially in the Far East, believe that man experiences many incarnations, carrying the memory to a greater or less degree from one incarnation to the other. Theological writers have taken up this strange state of feeling as an evidence that our mentality had an existence before our present bodily life—souls being created from the beginning.

She always seems so pleasant that I often wonder what good fairy by magic of some wand's fiat Deceived her moods and manners airy;

I think the fates of fairies must Have, when with graces they endowed her,

While smiles live on, and being just, This greater boon than all allowed her—
A grace most sweet in queen or peasant,

A Gentle Hint.
The captain, one of the peppery, efficient sort of men to whom might was merely an interlude between retreat and revile to be bridged over somehow, had picked his weary outfit all day and in the evening had gathered them into the mess hall for lecturing and examination.

"Who can tell me," he snapped, "when and where Sherman said 'War is hell'?"
"When Grant made him hike from Atlanta to the sea," came back a foot-sore doughboy.

Opportunity For Philanthropy.
"Bardon me, but where is the post office?" asked a recent arrival in Wagonbehind.

"That little weather-beaten building right over there is it," replied a native.
"The gent you see sawing wood beside it is the postmaster."
"Perhaps I'd better not disturb him. Very likely there is no mail for me, anyway."

"Melby not, but you might ask him to go in and see if there ain't. His second wife is watching from the window of the house next door—you can notice her head there now—to see that he keeps right on sawing. But, of course, she allows him to quit long enough to 'tend to official business. If I was you, I'd go over and have him take a look, even if you don't expect to get any thing. He's a pretty good sort of fellow; it never hurts nobody to do an afflicted person a favor."

Q. Please give me the names of states which have ordinances against the use of exhaust whistles on motor vehicles.—C. C. S.

A. The American Automobile Association says that practically all states prohibit the use of anything on automobiles that makes noise except a sound of warning. All cars should be equipped with mufflers.

Q. Since Hoyle has been dead for a century, why do we still say "according to Hoyle"? Have rules for card games changed since?—H. A.

A. The word "Hoyle" has come to stand as an abbreviation for Encyclopedia of Indoor Games. "Played according to Hoyle" simply means "correctly played," or "according to established rules." The original book by Edmund Hoyle was the first attempt to collect in one volume the rules of popular indoor games. This collection has been added to and changed, but many people have the delusion that Hoyle wrote about games such as pinocle and poker, which in reality he never knew.

Q. Has the mayor of a city any authority to call out the state militia?—J. F.

A. The War Department says that the State Adjutant General in the capital of each state is the only one, aside from the Governor of the state, who has the right to call out the state militia.

Q. Please explain the provision of the Postal Law regarding the return to the Postal Service of ex-service men.—M. R. M.

A. The Post Office Department says that a man who has been in the service of the Army and has been a regular postal employee receiving less than $1,500, can get credit for the number of years he has served in the military or naval service. When he returns to the Postal Service after being in military service promotion will go on automatically just as though he had been serving that time in the Post Office Department.

Q. What should silver be packed in to prevent tarnishing?—J. H.

A. We suggest that you wrap the silver in cotton flannel. The flannel, not red, gray, or green cotton flannel, but never white, because the chemical that has bleached the white cotton flannel often causes the silver to darken. If the drawer, chest or bag where the silver is stored contains a few pieces of gum camphor, the tarnish will not form so soon.

Q. Which is the greatest river in the world?—L. C. M.

A. The Amazon is the greatest river in the world, being said to contain one-tenth of all the running water on the globe.

WHO'S WHO

In The Days News

BRIG. GEN. CLARENCE R. EDWARDS.

Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards is to be promoted to the rank of major general in the regular army, retired and appointed governor general to Porto Rico. That is if the plan proposed by Secretary of War Weeks and approved by President Harding is carried out at the coming extraordinary session of congress. General Edwards commanded the New England division in France. The French government decorated him with the croix de guerre with palms and made him a commander in the Legion of Honor.

General Edwards was born in Cleveland, Ohio, sixty-one years ago. Therefore he is entitled to retire on a retired pay of $10,000, which is due him as a major general. If he should become governor of Porto Rico he will receive an additional $6,000.

It is said that General Edwards is very anxious to retire as he has been in the army nearly forty-two years. He is considered unusually well qualified for the governorship of Porto Rico as he was chief of the insular affairs bureau of the army under Roosevelt.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 2.—There is a class of genial souls in New York who might be called intellectual vagabonds. They are quite distinct from the group of pseudo intellectual writers who are the professional babblers of Gotham's Bohemia. The intellectual vagabond has as a rule done something worth while—a first class novel, a painting of merit or a bit of poetry.

In their ambition seems to have been spent in one spurt and so they fall back into the easy path of doing an occasional "pot boiler," an advertisement picture or a jingle for a tooth-brush maker.

When the reel becomes too long over due they grind out a "red blooded" piece of fiction and take it around to one of the cheaper magazines and sit in the outer office until it has been read and accepted and the cashier's ticket handed to them.

There is a poet who has had several volumes of his poems published, but since then the Muse has become coy and reluctant until the pines of hunger assail him and then he goes to newspaper offices, borrows a pencil and pad and dashes off a poem. He rarely fails to dispose of it on the spot for from $10 to $15.

And one can live a long time in Bohemia on $15 if he knows the formula. It is a devil-may-care existence that leads from one dilapidated basement table, d'note to another, breakfasting in the late afternoon and eating a full cheap-wine washed meal at midnight.

These vagabonds are not persons. They care little what the world thinks and most of them believe that they have found the real way to happiness. The "serious thinkers" amuse them as much as they do other folk. If they experience some chance financial whirlfall they board a tramp steamer to Europe and visit the Montmartre section of Paris for a month and then drift back into old ways.

Professional ball players sometimes declare that no ball player ever becomes rich and that the only men connected with the game who do are the club owners—and yet Harry Stevens, who has dispensed pop, peanuts and programmes to Polo Ground fans for ten years is popularly reported to be worth three millions. He came to New York without a penny and got a job as a programme boy at the National League Park. He saw the vast opportunities and secured the concession. It required a substantial sum to secure this, but Stevens went down into Wall Street, wheedled his way into a banker's private office and left with the check for the amount. The banker had never seen him before.

A beautiful woman, elegantly costumed, with a head of flaming hair stepped from a limousine at the canopy entrance to the Hotel Vanderbilt. Down the steps came a manly dressed man who had been waiting for her. He removed his hat.

"Hello, Red," he called.

"How are you, Mike," she answered. And then they tripped up the steps and into the afternoon tea-room.

A man who appreciates New York's four flushing tendencies has started an automobile renting agency. He will provide for $70 an evening an automobile with licensed attendants. These vagabonds are not persons. They care little what the world thinks and most of them believe that they have found the real way to happiness. The "serious thinkers" amuse them as much as they do other folk. If they experience some chance financial Unwelcome Home Guests.

Prudent husbands and wives guard their homes carefully against visitors likely to bring scandal, immorality and shame into them. Bad company is an association to be shunned every where but especially in the home, which is the citadel of virtue, respectability and honor for the nation.

Visitors in this family sanctuary from which all evil communications should be barred, must be entirely reputable, if it is to be kept clean in thought and deed. The husband and father wants no man of questionable reputation given hospitality by his wife or daughter; the wife will tolerate in her home, to associate with her husband or son, no woman of immoral character.

These are fundamental facts bearing on the purity and happiness of home life which nobody disputes. No decent man or woman wants a guest given to conversation about immoralities, or sensational stories of crime, or the exploitation of criminals, seducers or vampires.

Boys and girls budding into manhood and womanhood are entitled to only the best influences, the highest ideals, the finest examples of purity and righteous living, in their homes, because since it was first established as the center of family life, the home has been recognized by all enlightened governments as the most potent incentive to good citizenship and respectable life.

It is a strange fact that many families exercise the most scrupulous care as to the persons who enter their homes as guests, entirely overlook certain insidious and dangerous promoters of evil thought and bad conduct which are given unquestioned admittance. We refer to immoral books, magazines and newspapers.

Spiritualism a Science?
Sir Arthur Conan Doyle persists in his belief in spiritualism, but says it is not a religion, but a science. A scientific problem is never solved until a noted erudite demonstration may be written after it. Sir Arthur is convinced he has the Q. T. D., but the world cannot see it so. He accuses the world of terrible fault in this respect, but as all religion is spiritualism, he is not equally at fault in designating the essentially religious character of spiritualism.

For generations it has been the problem of theologians to write quod erat demonstrandum after their dogmatic declarations. When able to do so will religion become a science and cease to be religion? will it ever become strictly a matter of reason and lose its present predominant characteristic of faith?

But whiskers are different. No two men ever had like hirsute products, and we dare say no man ever lived if he had been clean shaven. It is not at some period in his life harbor a desire to see just what nature would do to him in the way of whiskers. The Kaiser had this longing, and gave it full play—just once. Then he looked upon himself in a mirror, had his photograph taken for historical reference, saw that it was not good and ordered it destroyed. In his he was in harmony with most men of his generation. But nevertheless there is dignity in a full beard. It is a natural development of vigor in the male human, albeit usually a dusty and dirty one. Women, as a rule, regard it as an abomination, except when it hides more hideous facial shapes.
